We manage internal conflicts and differences of opinion so that they don't undermine our ability to govern and make good decisions.
Meetings are well-managed and we use sound decision-making processes (e.g. there is a focus on; our goals in our Strategic and Annual Plans; our responsibilities. There is follow through and time is well used).
All reports, including budget reports, are received at least 3 days prior to the meetings.
As a member I understand our budget and financial responsibilities, and I am actively engaged in monitoring our school budget.
The School Representative Body communicates well with staff and community members, and there is a high level of trust and feedback.
We avoid 'micro-managing' by having a clear separation of powers between the School Representative Body and school management who conduct day-to-day operations.
Our school management and School Representative Body work well together and achieve outcomes for students and our school.
